Children serve as our prime examples of authenticity. As we grow up, society tells us who we should be. We need to reconnect with our inner child and let go of prejudices. "An Existential Crisis at Six" collection explores children's concerns, like the simple question, "What is the pear?" — a question that adults often overlook because they assume they already know the answer. This collection shows the flexibility and authenticity of a child's mind, urging us to embrace a similar openness and curiosity in our own lives.

So, the role of GCD is to manifest the beauty of being yourself and the danger of being that in a sea of fakes... GCD can help create an environment free from judgment and fake links. This acceptance of ourselves is key to our mental well-being. The authenticity is a new black.

How can we protect ourselves from this dystopianism?

Sensationalism overshadows the truth

Twitter
Ignoring the facts, standard of authenticity depends on the amount of likes and comments now. It leads us to mislead.

What is the standard of authenticity?

Andy Warhol
"Making money is art and working is art and good business is the best art."

Colors represent how superficial the industry is: people are trained to make money, not to explore personality.

I took "American Gothic" and threw a mix of sorts of characters, features, it became a parody and a joke. Without knowing it, I was just a piece of high art.

Position:
People feel more exposed. Fearing judgment, people begin to lose their authenticity, trying not to stand out. We become replicas of one another.

Real refers to innovation

Sensationalism is depicted through the use of the color red, which is a strong emotion.

I used a concrete phrase used by the artist and the public to represent the loss of personal authenticity. "Making money is art" is the best art.

How can sound be presented in innovative ways?

It's a question of how to present sound in a way that is not just a collection of notes, but a story, a feeling, a moment. It's about how to use sound to create a new world, a new way of seeing the world.
